Wounded Senator worse Hope fading for Stennis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The condition of Sen. John C. Stennis worsened following new surgery today and a hospital spokesman said his chance of recovery "is considered grave." The senator was shot twice in a holdup a week ago.

The 71-year-old Mississippi Democrat was in the operating room at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for 45 minutes after doctors suspected a blockage had developed in his small intestine, said hospital spokesman Dr. Frank Garland.

He said that while no blockage was found, "this additional surgery has resulted in a worsening" of Stennis' condition. "He remains very seriously ill and the prognosis is considered grave," Garland added at a 6 a.m. EST, news briefing.

Senate hurls new challenge at President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring reports of possible vetoes, the Senate has moved to spend more for airport improvements than the President wants and to call back his already-installed budget director for a confirmation hearing.

By a 65-15 vote, the Senate Monday passed a $450-million bill that would boost the federal government's share of airport improvements from 50 to 75 per cent.

Then, by a 63-17 vote, the Senate passed a bill requiring confirmation of all directors of the Office of Management and Budget, starting with Roy L. Ash, who was sworn in last week.

Neither bill has passed the House. Some Senate Republicans said last week that a veto of the bill requiring confirmation of Ash probably could be expected in view of the fact he has been sworn in. Since the Senate confirms junior military officers, why shouldn't it confirm the man who writes the nation's budget? asked Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., manager of the OMB bill.

Ervin and other backers say the budget director is the second-most-powerful man in the nation.

"The budgetary process of the United States makes a mockery of democracy," said Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn. "There is no room for citizen or congressional participation until the budget comes here to us as a total package conceived in the most-complete secrecy in government."

The actions are the latest in a series designed to strengthen what many in Congress believe is White House usurping of their constitutional powers. They say they alone have the power to set specific spending levels.

Great snoutdog controversy hits Agriculture Department

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, once site of the fatdog controversy, now is center of a more vocal battle: what could be called the snoutdog dispute.

Consumers were virtually unanimous four years ago in pressing the government to roll back fat levels in hot dogs. But they are split on whether to permit hot dogs and other cooked sausages to contain meat byproducts such as hearts, livers, tongues, spleens and snouts.

GRAFFITI
THE FIRST PERSON TO SEE THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL IS THE LANDLORD

The byproducts aren't in all hot dogs and their presence must be disclosed on package labels. But even limited presence disturbs those that want them out. The byproducts are nutritious and cheap, say those who want them left in.

The Agriculture Department received 604 opinions from the public during the fat controversy. At the halfway point in the time allotted for comment on a proposal to ban byproducts in all cooked sausages except those labeled imitation, the department had received 600 letters.

"I refuse to feed hot dogs to my family. I've talked to many who feel the same," wrote Billie R. King of Huntington, Ind. "We never knew byproducts meant lips, snouts, spleens, etc. It's nauseating."

"We have been eating sausage in our home for as many years as I can remember and I assume it has always included these so-called offal products," wrote Madeline Bubernik of St. Louis, Mo. "I also assume that government controls assure me that it is wholesome and sanitary and therefore nutritious. So please leave the sausage just the way it is and save the housewife another unwarranted price increase."

The only cost estimates submitted so far were from the Gwaltney division of ITT. The Smithfield, Va., packer estimated banning the byproducts outright would cost the industry $42 million a year and raise prices to shoppers by 15 to 20 cents a pound.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four U.S. Navy minesweepers were ordered today to begin clearing an anchorage 35 miles off Haiphong harbor to serve as a base of operations for later sweeping of mines from North Vietnamese ports.

The proposed constitutional amendment was to have been up for a vote today, but was held back until at least Wednesday due to the death of the mother-in-law of the primary sponsor, Speaker Pro Tem Vernal Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston.

Four other amendments were to be considered today, and at least two of them could be in trouble, Lancione says. He said party caucuses are planned prior to what shapes up as the longest House floor session so far this year to allow leaders to plan strategy.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Speaker A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, says Democrats may be willing to compromise on a method for financing a Vietnam veterans' bonus to keep it from being stalled in the Ohio House.

"I've been doing some checking, and will do some more. But I think there is room for compromise," the speaker said. He was interested in exploring further, he said, a possibility of using both sources. He mentioned a tax levy

Exchange teams on standby alert POWs free Saturday

SAIGON (AP) — The chairman of the international ceasefire commission said today that the first groups of American prisoners of war to be freed in both North and South Vietnam would be handed over about Saturday.

Michel Gauvin of Canada, the chairman of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS), told newsmen as he entered a meeting of the commission: "I don't have any specific time or date, but I know it's around the 10th for American prisoners."

After the meeting, he expanded on this and told newsmen: "There are no definite dates, but I understand American prisoners will probably be released around the 10th of February, some of them, not all, from Hanoi."

Gauvin said he also understood that shortly after the first group of Americans is released, Vietnamese prisoners would be freed or exchanged in South Vietnam.

Gauvin mentioned two possible sites for the transfer of prisoners held by the Viet Cong in South Vietnam: the An Loc area, 60 miles north of Saigon, and Phu Hoa, also north of Saigon.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Military Command announced that 2,000 more American troops were withdrawn from Vietnam during the past four days, dropping U.S. strength to below 20,000 men for the first time since December 1964.

Under terms of the cease-fire agreement, all U.S. troops are to be out of Vietnam and all prisoners released by March 28.

The Joint Military Commission — made up of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong — asked the International Commission to have three of its prisoner recovery teams ready to move out on two hours' notice.

"They're on short standby," an official said of the eight-man teams. "They are ready to be available within a few hours." Each team includes two representatives of the nations in the commission — Canada, Indonesia, Hungary and Poland.

The Pentagon said Monday that it hoped some American prisoners would be freed by the middle of the week.

Meanwhile, Viet Cong peacekeeping teams joined North Vietnamese, South Vietnamese and American observers of the four-party Joint Military Commission at regional field sites for the first time. American helicopters flew teams of five to seven Viet Cong representatives to Bien Hoa, Phan Thiet, My Tho and Can Tho, four of the seven regional headquarters.

The bankruct Penn Central wants to eliminate one of the three crewmen now required on its trains. It had secured an order approving the crew reduction from U.S. District Court Judge John Fullam in Philadelphia. Judge Fullam is overseeing the reorganization of the railroad.

The judge pronounced sentence in the largest mass murder trial in U.S. history after rejecting a defense motion for a new trial based on charges of jury tampering — involving a conversation between a sheriff's matron and a juror the night before Corona was convicted.

Hefty pay awaits U.S. returnees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some American servicemen returning from war captivity in Southeast Asia will find as much as $100,000 waiting for them in back pay and allowances.

On top of that, they are in line to collect possibly thousands of dollars more by claiming a special payment of $5 for each day they spent in a POW camp.

Each of the 562 U.S. military men listed by the North Vietnamese as prisoners has money piling up in an account drawing 10 per cent interest.

The same is true for 55 men who died in captivity and 1,327 who still are missing. In the case of the dead, Pentagon officials said, the money likely will go to their estates. The accounts of the missing will continue to grow until the men are located or there is a formal finding of "presumptive death," officials said.

Air Force records show that 79 men have accumulated between $50,000 and $100,000 each in back pay and allowances. Another 247 men have from $25,000 to $50,000 to their credit.

Similar information was not available from the other services, but their POW accounts should parallel the Air Force's.

In general, officials said, the system works this way:

After a married man is captured or becomes missing, his service automatically deducts 10 per cent from his monthly pay and allowances and sends the balance to his wife.

The 10 per cent is placed in his account under the Uniformed Services Savings Deposit system.

At least 10 per cent is taken off the top of a bachelor's monthly check, too, but it is possible for his entire pay and

Wave of Boston slayings bring concentrated effort

this most recent series of killings, their counterparts on the suburban North Shore are investigating a wave of rapes.

Two attempted rapes last weekend in that area brought the number of such attacks and attempted attacks to 13 since November. In nearly every case, police say the attacker approaches his victim wearing a ski mask and takes her to a deserted area where he is joined by another man.

Neither Miss Ehramjian, 21, nor Miss Gillispie, 22, was ever seen alive again. They were two of eight young Boston-area women who have been slain since last summer.

As scores of lawmen and prosecutors gather in Boston today to attempt to find a common link in this area's most recent wave of killings, a district attorney says he has sufficient evidence to prosecute for the slaying of Miss Gillispie.

But law officials say they do not yet have conclusive evidence to tie one man to the eight murders, all of them committed against young, white women and all by strangulation or suffocation.

As Boston-area law officials work on the focus of police is on the murders of the young women. All were between 18 and 29. Most were sexually attacked. Four were college students. At least four were last seen hitchhiking. A fifth may have met her death when she picked up a hitchhiker.

The murders have brought comparisons to the Boston Strangler slayings of 1960.

One veteran lawman, who asked not to be identified, said the two cases are similar only in that "when you're faced with something like this, you don't know what the hell to expect next."

He said the pattern in the recent killing is not as consistent or as pronounced as were the 1960 strangulations.

Democrats want open primaries for each post.

The speaker said he also anticipated a possible skirmish on the legislative expenses resolution on the basis of previous bipartisan disagreement on the issue. "I don't think there's anything partisan about it," he said, indicating the majority leadership will let chips fall where they may.

Lancione said he foresaw no difficulty on passage of a proposal to let the legislature provide that farm property could be assessed at a special lower rate based on its agricultural use. He didn't speculate on the last item on today's calendar, an amendment to change the legislature's operating procedures in line with recommendations of a citizens' committee.

Phoumi is the No. 3 man in the Pathet Lao. He arrived from Hanoi Saturday. No information was available on what he and Prince Souvanna said to each other.

Military sources said North Vietnamese troops were spearheading an attack in southern Laos adjacent to the Ho Chi Minh trail and around the Mekong River town of Thakhek. They said government forces were engaged in fierce fighting with about a battalion of North Vietnamese six miles east of the town.

When the U.S. POWs reach hospitals in the United States, they will be given forms to apply for the special $5-a-day payment covering their time in captivity.

The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission is authorized to pay former war prisoners who were poorly fed and worked against their will while in enemy hands.

Based on the $5-a-day rate, Army Maj. Floyd Thompson appears to be eligible for up to about $16,000 and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Everett Alvarez Jr. for a maximum of about $15,500, in addition to their savings accounts.

Thompson, held longer than any other American, was captured in South Vietnam in March 1964. Alvarez was the first U.S. pilot shot down over North Vietnam and taken prisoner, during the Tonkin Gulf incident in August 1964.

U.S., North Viets plan conference at Paris site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam announced today they had agreed on Paris as the site for a postwar international conference to begin Feb. 26.

The announcement, made simultaneously in Washington and Hanoi, said only that the two countries "have agreed to propose Paris as the site" for the international conference.

But it was clear that the location and date had already been locked up, and that the South Vietnamese government of President Nguyen Van Thieu had concurred.

The international conference was agreed upon in the accord signed on Jan. 27 ending the Vietnam war. The 12-party conference is intended to guarantee an end to the fighting.

Deaths, Funerals

Ernest F. Boldman

Word has been received here of the death of Ernest Franklin Boldman, 63, of 2703 Dwight Rd., Springfield, who died at 2:45 p.m. Thursday in Mercy Medical Center there. He retired several months ago from White Motor Co.

Surviving is his wife, Dorothy; two sons, Donald and Shannon; and one daughter, Mrs. Betty Pierson, all of Springfield; seven grandchildren and four brothers and seven sisters, one of whom is Mrs. E.B. Burkett, of 1134 E. Temple St.

Services were held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Lucasville United Brethren Church. Pallbearers for the burial in Lucasville Cemetery were Gerald Burkett, Delmar Burkett, Dale and Roger Boldman and Harold Price.

Elmer L. Stewart

Elmer L. Stewart, 72, of Rt. 6, who had resided for the past seven months in the Spangler Nursing Home, was dead on arrival at Fayette Memorial Hospital at 6 p.m. Monday. He had become suddenly ill at the home.

He was a laborer, never married, a member of Sugar Grove Methodist Church. His only survivor is a niece, Mrs. Kathleen Bryant, of New Holland.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Parrett Funeral Home with the Rev. Earl Russell officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Miss Ethel E. McCoy

WILMINGTON — Miss Ethel E. McCoy, 86, of 201 E. Locust St., died at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in Clinton Memorial Hospital. Born in Fayette County to the late Judson McCoy and Alice Hackney McCoy Williams, she was a retired librarian.

Surviving is a niece, Mrs. Jane McCoy Gardner, of Washington C.H. Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the Marsh Funeral Home with the Rev. Fred McCloskey, of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Good Hope Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3:30 until 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Edna Lindsey Roll

JEFFERSONVILLE — Mrs. Edna Lindsey Roll, 77, of Ohio 729-W, died at 3 p.m. Monday in Fayette Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient 17 days. She had been in failing health three months.

Born in Hocking County, she had lived in New Holland for 12 years before moving to Jeffersonville 24 years ago. Her husband, Nolan B. Roll, died in 1967.

She is survived by a son, Charles L. Roll, of Ohio 729-W; two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren; three brothers, Roscoe Lindsey, New Smyrna Beach, Fla.; Stanley, of Orient, and John, of Sabina; and seven sisters, Mrs. Sarah Nelson and Mrs. Olive Crossley, of Newark, Mrs. Julia Campbell, Mrs. Melvin (Ora) Garry and Mrs. Melva Hoghe, all of Columbus; Mrs. Augusta Donaldson, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Dana (Juanita) Goble, of Obetz.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Morrow Funeral Home, with Conrad Bower, pastor of the Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Sabina Cemetery were Watt Rice, Bill Woodford, Tom McMeney, William Erskine, Charles Laufer Sr. and Charles Laufer Jr.

MRS. MARY STEELE — Services for Mrs. Mary Steele, 56, of 35 Walnut St., Jeffersonville, who died Saturday in Fairborn, were held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Morrow Funeral Home, Jeffersonville, with the Rev. Roy Love, pastor of the Maple St. Church of Christ in Christian Union, officiating.

Pallbearers for the burial in Twin Township Cemetery, Bourneville, were Steve, Roger, Brad, Michael and Danny Steele and Marshall Steele Jr.

Protestants call strike

BELFAST (AP) — Protestant militants are calling a one-day strike throughout Northern Ireland Wednesday to protest the first use against them of the new antiterrorist laws.

The Protestants, allied in the United Loyalist Council, are protesting the detention without trial of two members of the vigilante Ulster Defense Association, William Halsall, 23, and Sam Macrea, 20.

New car woes bring action

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — John Bottles, 26, grew weary of continuing woes with his new car, and called the dealer late Monday night.

"Bring it in and leave a note with it," dealer Walt Sweeney told Bottles, of Hamilton.

Bottles complied. About 4 a.m. today he drove his 1972 Vega through a glass service door at Sweeney Chevrolet in nearby Springfield.

Bottles left the car parked by the service desk.

Police estimated damage to the dealership at about $300. The car was not damaged.

Sweeney said he would not press charges.

White House, Congress set impoundment battle lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's top domestic adviser says White House refusal to spend funds approved by Congress is legal and necessary for the good of the country, despite what critics say.

Congressional "appropriation isn't the last word" in the spending process, John D. Ehrlichman said in an interview Monday. "Whenever it's possible for the executive to save money, it's incumbent upon him to do so."

Such refusal to spend—impoundment, it is called—under attack in Congress and under investigation in Senate hearings, "has been the presidential prerogative ever since Thomas Jefferson," Ehrlichman said. "And every president has felt obliged to exercise control, in the national interest, over the expenditure of moneys."

In a statement more critical of Congress than of Nixon, Byrd, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said "worthwhile programs are victimized along with those that are unworthy and which we ourselves have shown neither the wisdom nor the guts to terminate."

"Too many of us over the years," Byrd said, "have virtually outdone ourselves in currying the favor of organized pressure groups that advocate more and more spending as the solution for more and more problems, this being the way to get more and more votes. The result: more and more deficits."

But in calling for greater restraints in spending along the lines Nixon has pursued, Byrd emphasized he thinks Congress should assert more control and "protect its constitutional authority to determine how the people's moneys will be spent, how much will be spent, and for what purposes."

Senate hearings on the impoundments begin today in the subcommittee on separation of powers,

UAW readies pact demands

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hints about what the United Auto Workers union wants this year in contracts with the three largest American automakers began emerging today.

UAW Vice President Douglas Woodcock's words to the nearly 1,400 delegates here could be a repetition of the UAW's longtime opposition to wage controls. The union wants controls eliminated in favor of a review board, which would rely upon public opinion to halve excessive wage and price increases.

Woodcock has said wages will be part of the proposals submitted to management of the auto companies, but he also says membership pressure for higher wages is far less intense than in 1970, when the UAW struck General Motors for 67 days.

Fraser agrees, saying: "There seems to be less money pressure than at any time in—oh, say—10 years."

Airport guard rule delayed

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

Armed guards went on duty at some airports around the nation today, but were withheld at others following an injunction that delays new antihijack measures.

A federal judge in Washington ordered a 10-day delay in enforcement of the new security measures on Monday. Judge John Smith ordered the delay until Feb. 15 and set a hearing for Feb. 13 on whether to make his injunction permanent.

The judge issued his ruling after the Federal Aviation Administration refused earlier Monday to extend the midnight deadline for compliance with its rule that airports provide armed guards.

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley canceled his order for extra police security at the city's O'Hare and Midway airports after learning of the ruling. Earlier in the day, he had ordered formation of two security teams consisting of 48 men at O'Hare and 25 at Midway.

Landrieu and Gribbs, who is president of the National League of Cities, sister organization to the Conference of Mayors, had been upset that newsmen asking for the total impact of the budget proposals got no specific answer, so on Monday they began counting their misfortunes.

Gribbs detailed federal cuts in ongoing programs during fiscal 1974 totaling $165.4 million, with several programs yet to be calculated when more information on the proposed budget becomes available.

Landrieu calculated a loss of $18.7 million for the same period on Model Cities, Office of Economic Opportunity and park programs alone. Figures for other programs had not been determined, in some cases because the city had not received word on whether its applications were affected by freezes on federal spending.

Firemen called to trash blaze

City firemen responded to a trash fire alarm at the rear of Warner's Arco Station, 1204 S. Fayette St., at 8:07 p.m. Monday.

Firemen said the first report they received indicated that the rear of the station was on fire, but it was found that only trash was burning. Fire officials said they had been receiving several complaints about the late burning of trash at the station.

Auto suspects held

San Diego transport plan could bring ban on autos

BY BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — With luck and a little help from the federal government, the automobile could be a thing of the past in downtown San Diego within five years, a city planner says.

In its place could be electric-powered, one-car "people movers," rolling quietly above the city at 30 miles an hour on elevated concrete tracks, linking peripheral parking garages with any downtown street corner in five minutes. City streets, meanwhile, would be for pedestrians only.

How much will MAC system cost? The planners don't know yet.

Amanda youth killed

AMANDA, Ohio (AP) — James Waits, 10, of Amanda, died of head injuries in a hospital at Columbus Monday night after falling about 15 feet from railroad trestle and hitting his head on a pipe imbedded in the ground. Fairfield County Sheriff's deputies said.

The system, known as MAC for "Major Activity Center," is running in embryonic form at the University of West Virginia campus in Morgantown, and is in the planning stage in half a dozen cities, says Andrew P. Schlaefli, supervising transportation planner in the San Diego Planning Department.

Aid for endangered species

It is a truism that environmental concern is on the rise throughout the world. For the first time in the long history of man's exploitation of his native planet's resources, there is widespread understanding that certain basic things must now be done on a global scale.

It is coming to be understood that we must conserve and make optimum use of Earth's finite resources - fossil fuels, minerals, forests, the very land itself. There is a growing conviction, too, that steps must be taken to reduce manifold pollution and other harm to the human environment. A related concern is to protect the animal and plant life which form such an important part of man's natural heritage.

Any significant movement in this direction is cause for rejoicing. Just such an advance was made the other day in Moscow when U.S.-Soviet agreements on joint effort to conserve endangered species were signed. The two countries undertake to work together closely on research and studies, and on implementing a variety of protection and development measures.

The agreements, rooted in the environmental pact reached at the summit conference last May, cover a wide range of activity. There will be an exchange of specialists in the field, and a concerted educational effort in both countries. This is a most promising involvement of the two superpowers, one that should give fresh impetus to such effort in many other parts of the world.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Rogers hailed for peace efforts

WASHINGTON — The soft spot in the Nixon generation of peace is today, as for many years, the Middle East. Yet, for all the bluster out of the Arab world, the chances for at least an interim settlement are better than at any time since the six-day war in 1967.

And this hopeful prospect owes a lot to President Nixon's initiatives with Moscow and Peking.

With the press of other events a significant meeting held in New York recently went largely unreported. By the ancient formula of man-bites-dog it was news of the first order.

Not only was there praise for Secretary of State William P. Rogers, rare enough in itself, but it came from Jacob Stein, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of major Jewish organizations. The occasion was a dinner honoring Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin, who will retire following the visit to Washington of Prime Minister Golda Meir at the end of February.

IN A LOW-KEY speech Rogers said he was convinced that both sides, Arabs and Israelis, want a settlement based on the United Nations Security Council resolution of November, 1967, calling for the return of the territories occupied in the six-day war. But recognizing that this proposal has been kicked back and forth, achieving little except acrimony, he went on to say that the most realistic approach would be to begin negotiations on an interim agreement reopening the Suez Canal.

He proposed the following steps:

separate the military forces of both sides still positioned along the canal; reinforce the cease-fire; a partial Israeli withdrawal; and finally the opening of the canal to international commerce. The speech contained no reference to the U.N. peace efforts or the unhappy mission of Gunnar Jarring. This was a welcome omission for the Israelis, since they had been dead set against the initial Rogers peace plan with the incorporation of a role for a U.N. mission.

BOTH Rabbi Stein and Ambassador Rabin praised Rogers for initiating the cease-fire that brought an end to the shooting in June, 1970. Rabin called it the most important development in the nearly six years since the six-day war.

"The cease-fire in the main front of the hostilities between Israel and the Arab states, along the Suez Canal, has since been followed by a virtual cessation of fire along the Jordan River and now on the Lebanese-Israeli border as well. All of these are direct results of that interim cease-fire which you, Mr. Secretary, proposed and achieved in spite of doubts and hesitations on the part of both sides of the conflict," Rabin said.

The Nixon Administration, with Rogers the principal sponsor, intends to have an active part in furthering the next step toward peace. But for the short term the policy is one of wait and see. This is to take account of the procession of visitors with a lot to say about the Middle East.

King Hussein of Jordan is arriving with his position more solid than at any time since his warfare with the Palestinian guerrillas. Jordan is realigned with the Arab military front, but Hussein has not compromised with the Fedayyeen, keeping in close control of the guerrilla units on Jordanian territory. With a comprehensive, well-thought-out plan Jordan's economic position has shown a marked improvement.

THE KEY, as always, is Egypt. President Anwar el-Sadat failed to take in the significance of the Nixon initiatives with Peking and Moscow. He was unprepared for the withdrawal of Soviet support and the denial by Moscow of the kind of missile that would have opened the way to an attack on Israeli cities. Whether Sadat has a sufficient hold on the army to start an interim negotiation is the unknown X.

Time is for many reasons running out. Rabbi Stein noted recent testimony that within 10 years the United States would be importing a third of its oil from the Arab states on the Persian Gulf. That degree of dependence will give the oil-rich Arabs a powerful lever on American policy. It will also inflate huge treasures that can be diverted to support war and threats of war against the enemy Israel.

With benign neglect from the Soviet Union as the United States pursues an activist and yet low-profile policy, there is a glimmer of hope on the Eastern horizon. It owes a lot to Secretary Rogers.

Just What is relevant?

Should universities and colleges give up a year's academic credit for "relevant" activities off campus? One of the complaints students have had over the years — often with substantial basis in fact — is that classroom activities stifle their creativity.

As a young man quoted in the New York Times put it, "Classroom experience becomes meaningless after a while and you look for ways to put your learning in the context of the real world." To facilitate this sort of furlough from the ivory tower the Federal ACTION program has enrolled more than a thousand students from 24

Ordeal of parenthood

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the hardest ordeals of parenthood is facing up to the realization that after a certain age your children use home only as a resting place between flights that take them farther and farther away.

The house seems so empty when they have gone.

That is the way my apartment seems now — now that my daughter, trailing clouds of exhaust smoke that obscured the ecology of our neighborhood, has driven off for another try at higher education.

As a freshman last year, Tracy Ann loved picturesque little Windham College and its lovely hillside setting in old Putney, Vt., but failed to set any scholastic records.

So she decided to take a semester off, a decision I acceded to reluctantly only on her promise that she would return to school at the end of that time. It has become commonplace now for thousands of young students to drop out of college for a time in order, as so many of them say, "to find myself."

Whether this is a good or bad thing, generally, I can't say. In Tracy's case, I suppose, the answer still depends on whether she goes on now to make college a meaningful part of her life.

Certainly, however, she has matured considerably during her semester off. During this period she wangled a job as copy boy. Although she did her work well, she came early to a realization that being a copy boy was hardly a permanent career for a 19-year-old young lady.

These six months have been among the happiest of my life to date. During this time Tracy has learned to keep house, cook, and be a pleasure to her father — so much of a pleasure that I have forgiven her the years of helldom she has put me through during her early teendom.

"Well, dear," I told her as she was packing for her return to college, "I hope you have found yourself."

"I never was lost," she replied. "I always have known who I am, Daddy. But I am still not sure of where I am going. But I think I would like to do something with the English language."

That made me feel a bit sad. For I have been trying to do something with the English language for nearly 62 years, and wonder whether I have succeeded in doing anything but blunt myself. It isn't easy to make a dent in the English language.

So Tracy trudged out of the house carrying two spare auto tires that have been decorating our living room for the last few months.

"Kiss me, Daddy."

We kissed. Tracy bent her head a moment, then the car roared off. She never waved or looked back.

That was less than 24 hours ago. Yes, the house is already silent and empty. What will it be like through all the days to come?

Ohio Perspective

New uniform probate code plan proposed

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is being asked to follow the lead of Idaho and Alaska in the adoption of a uniform probate code which figures to rile large numbers of Ohio Lawyers.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, is sponsoring the legislation. He claims it would save millions of dollars and enable citizens to settle estates cheaper and quicker.

Declarer wins your diamond lead with the ace and plays a low heart to the queen. Right then and there it is easy to go wrong. If you take the ace and play a spade to partner's presumed ace, you wind up behind the eight ball.

Declarer would win the spade, draw trumps, and so make the contract.

You could plead that East was more likely to have the spade ace than the club ace, but that would not be a good excuse for failing to guess which one he actually had.

Instead of consigning this guess to pure chance, it is far better to duck the first trump lead and take the second. This gives your illustrious partner a chance to signal with a high spade or a high club, depending on his hand, and in that way eliminate the element of doubt.

Charles Fenerty of Lower Sackville, Halifax County, Nova Scotia, was a co-discoverer, in 1839, of the groundwood pulping process that today supplies most of the world's newsprint.

Itself a lawyer, the 38-year-old Mottl says passage of the bill would cost him "thousands of dollars" since he does a substantial amount of probate work.

He adds: "This bill would save millions in attorney fees and court costs each year . . . in curtailing the amount of probate work necessary to transfer the assets (of an estate) to the heirs."

Mottl says he is hopeful, but admits he will face a powerful group of lobbyists if his bill begins to move. They are the lawyers who would stand to lose a good source of income, probate judges whose authority would be diminished since they would have little to do with most estates, and bonding companies who would lose business since bonds in most cases no longer would be required.

He says the bill simplifies and reduces, in many cases by as much as two-thirds, the cost of passing an estate from one spouse to another or from one generation to another. It would require only the amount of legal work and court action "appropriate to the size of the estate," he explained.

Attorney fees and related expense, under present law, can claim 10-15 per cent.

The bill provides that in estates in which there is no will or a will is declared invalid, a surviving spouse would receive everything in most estates up to $50,000, and a greater share than now in those estates which are larger than $50,000.

Most low and middle income estates could be administered summarily.

The bill provides, in most cases and except when specified in a will, three options to choose from: No administration, informal administration in which an unbonded representative could be appointed, and supervised administration.

The bill retains protections for creditors, but they must file claims within four months after publication of notice that a representative has been appointed, or within three years if no representative was appointed.

Mottl has an analysis of the uniform code from the Legislative Service Commission stating that present laws are "too costly and too complex," and have been severely criticized in recent years.

The LSC called the measure "one possible response to these charges."

State gaining in school aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association says local property owners are still contributing the bulk of support for the state's public schools — but the state has made significant gains in providing more funds for elementary and secondary education.

In a release, the OEA said a report compiled by the National Education Association showed Ohio provides 33.1 per cent of the cost of public schools.

The OEA said that although still below the national average of 41 per cent, the figure is considerably higher than the 27.9 per cent of 1970-71, the last year before the education-finance-tax package generated by the state income tax became effective.

Speaking of Your Health...

Occupational Cancer Studied

I have never read anything about the possible relationship between the kind of work a person does, and the formation of a cancer.

Is this too far-fetched an idea?

For example, would people who work near firing furnaces be subject to cancer?

Mr. T.V., R.I.

Dear Mr. V.: It is interesting that your letter should coincide with a symposium devoted to the problem of occupational cancer.

This meeting took place in Geneva, Switzerland. A group of international scientists wanted to assess the problem and see if there was any relationship to cancer after exposure to heat, cold or chemicals.

It is accepted, of course, that people working in factories that produce luminous materials like watch dials may have a greater exposure to radium, and with it a tendency to bone cancers.

It is known, too, that miners of uranium do have a greater tendency to cancer of the lungs.

A survey has shown that X-ray technicians and doctors specializing in radiology may tend to develop skin cancers more readily than others.

Apparently, there is a distinct relationship between certain occupations and overexposure to carcinogenic (cancer-forming) substances.

Even though the mathematical frequency may be slight, intensive programs are now being instituted in all industries to record important information about the nature of the materials being used, and the degree to which workers are exposed to possible cancer-forming substances.

Industrial plants are being redesigned, and the most elaborate protective devices are being instituted.

An important safety factor depends entirely on the worker who frequently becomes careless in the use of protective devices.

Print fashions

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

RESORTFUL, that's the word that comes to mind when you look at Jay Anderson's latest collection for Posh. They are great little dresses, the kind you want to gather together and pack when you are escaping the winter doldrums and heading for a sun spot.

For those who like fashions that won't wilt no matter the weather, he has done a number of Quiana dresses that are marvelously packable because they weigh a mere nothing. And of course they are in the fresh prints that are a Posh trademark. Nobody, but nobody, does prints that are so fresh and appealing.

There are some great silks in the collection, too, including the navy and white dotted dress with softly pleated skirt and spanking white bodice banded with the dotted fabric.

Since cool breezes can spring up anywhere outdoors, even indoors if the air conditioning's frosty, Jay Anderson's resort collection includes a number of cottons with cardigan sweaters.

Father and son banquet planned

The annual father and son banquet has been planned for Feb. 13 at McNair Presbyterian Church. Dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. and the program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker will be John Randolph Osborne, Assistant Professor of Religion at Berea College, Berea, Ky. He is a graduate of Milligan College, Tenn., Christian Theological Seminary, Ind., Butler University, Ind., and has done further study at Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, and in Jerusalem.

Professor Osborne has spent the past six summers in Israel with the excavations of Tell Gezer, the ancient Old Testament City occupied in 3600 B.C. to 100 A.D. It was one of Solomon's chariot cities on the coastal plain of Palestine.

The open house is being given by their nieces, Jill Long, Sharon Adair and Beverly Walthall.

'Open house' planned for anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cummings, 1870 Little Rd., Jamestown, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at "open house" in Grape Grove Church of Christ, Jamestown.

Mrs. Cummings, the former Pauline Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hersel Long, of Jamestown, is employed at Greenview School as a fourth grade teacher. Her husband is on the staff at Wittenberg University, Springfield. They were married Feb. 14, 1948, in the Latonia Church of Christ, Covington, Ky., by the Rev. Herbert T. Steucher.

The open house is being given by their nieces, Jill Long, Sharon Adair and Beverly Walthall.

They request gifts be omitted.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week, ABC's late-hour "Wide World of Entertainment," rolled out some critics to talk about television while on television. This was a giant step forward or something.

It was a distinguished panel, lacking only the perceptual views of a veteran television critic named Sinbad Brittle.

Who is Sinbad? He's a freelance critic who came to Manhattan years ago to set up his stand. Times were hard then and he existed by selling used rubes to confidence men.

He became fairly unknown, a man with no influence, possibly because he didn't write for anybody. He still doesn't. He just stomps up and down outside the network offices, damning and praising their shows.

Sinbad was asked for his autograph last week and I fear it went to his head. He's starting to talk the way big city critics write. This was noticed the other day when I asked him how things were going.

"Profoundly moving ... disturbing," he said.

"How so?"

"By what appears, hopefully, to be very fresh and funny, a near class in the established TV genre of sociological fantasy."

"What genre?" "A laugh riot. See it!"

"Se what?"

"... A bravura performance."

"A what?"

"A delight to the eye and ear."

"What are you talking about?"

"Generally speaking, a great work translated with inspiration to the small screen."

"That's better."

"And it's not without merit."

"Do tell."

"It's brimming with suspense and romance ... terrifically entertaining ... a masterful romp."

"Come again?"

"MMM Somewhat contrived, saddest with a lackneyed plot."

"You're losing me."

"As a weekly regular, she should be than welcome in your living rooms."

"Not mine. I'm married."

"I shall await the next episode with great interest."

"Me, too, Sinbad. See you around."

"One of the season's best," he murmured. The he was gone.

Canton Lehman new leader

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For the first time this season, the Associated Press Ohio Class AAA high school basketball ratings have some room at the top. They also have a new face, unbeaten Canton Lehman. Lehman whizzed around defending state champion

Cleveland East Tech into the top spot Monday.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave the Canton power, 16-0, 219 points, a 41-point bulge on East Tech. The Scarabs had led Lehman by one and two points the last two weeks.

Waverly in Class AA and Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South in Class A continued to command comfortable leads in the other two divisions.

Waverly, which has whipped 14 straight opponents this winter, collected 196 points to 169 for Willard, 16-0, again the runnerup team in Class AA.

Indian Valley South, the defending Class A state tournament ruler, earned 201 points for a 26-point lead on Fort Recovery, the new second place team. Fort Recovery exchanged places with Marion Pleasant, now No. 3.

All three of the small school powers are undefeated. Indian Valley South is 15-0 for a two-year winning streak of 41 games. Fort Recovery is 17-0 and Pleasant 15-0.

There was one new face each in Class AAA and Class A.

Chillicothe, 13-3, replaced Midtown as the tenth-ranked team among the large schools. Lorain Clearview, 14-1 and the state football playoff runnerup to Pleasant, took over the No. 10 spot from Fostoria St. Wendelin in Class A.

In Class AAA, Barberville remained in third, followed by Newark, Mansfield Senior, Hamilton Taft, Columbus South, Springfield South, Boardman and Chillicothe.

In Class AA, Rossford advanced one notch to third, then came Steubenville Catholic, Columbus Ready, Huron, Poland, Albany Alexander, Gallipolis and Tipp City.

In Class A, Wapakoneta St. Joseph stayed in the fourth spot, Sebring fifth, Greenwich South Central sixth, Strasburg seventh, Zanesville Rosecrans eighth, McDonald ninth and Lorain Clearview No. 10.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 7

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Influences somewhat mixed. There may be more than meets the eye in some situations. Be alert, but not overly suspicious.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Favored for faster advancement: Business matters, research, aviation developments, theatrical experiments; scholars, scientists; statesmanship. A good day!

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Prospects for gain should have brightened during the last few weeks. Where you were perceptive, you now share in profits. Further benefits to come later, so keep striving.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

If investments were not too good, that is no reason to "go for broke" now, but neither does it mean tightening up, which disrupts healthy expansion. Let experience be your guide.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Gather more information about pending issues, and do not proceed if you do not have sufficient facts, know-how. An uneven day in spots, but you can accomplish much.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Be patient and practical in devising plans; shift quickly to a different tack if the methods you are using are not really working.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

A time for re-evaluating your position, your attitude, your approach to all matters. Through will power, you can stabilize "cloudy" situations.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may yearn for a change — any kind of relief from monotony, but try to shake it off. This is not a time to bypass responsibilities and look for "greener fields."

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Avoid making hasty decisions now. Keep eyes open, ears attuned to suggestions, but evaluate thoroughly before going ahead. Hidden benefits possible.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Where projects are flourishing, continue with present procedure, but if changes are necessary, make them — and without regret! Fine advantage indicated.

Farm loan guarantees available

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie said Monday that about $1.5 million in federal funds can be used to guarantee commercial loans to Ohio farmers.

Approval for release of the funds, termed "a holdover from the depression days," was necessary by Atty. Gen. William Brown and by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Brown's opinion was released at a news conference Monday and Abercrombie said he received unofficial word through Rep. Clarence Miller, R-Ohio, that the federal department also would approve the fund transfer.

The money is part of the Ohio Rural Rehabilitation Corp. Fund, used to help farmers in the 1930s.

Abercrombie said state farmers are expected to need $30 million to $50 million in loans because wet weather delayed the harvest last year and a shortage of propane gas for drying purposes caused further damage.

The commercial loans will be made available to farmers who suffered a loss because of the "adverse conditions this year," Abercrombie said. They will be of greatest benefit to young farmers who could not get loans as a local bank because "they're already in hock."

Loans will be given on a first-come-first-served basis, he said, because of the number of farmers who may require them.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Frederic Lamb was elected Monday night to be mayor of suburban Forest Park. He succeeds Philip White who resigned because of a possible conflict of interest with his acceptance of a position as manager of Industrial Sales, leasing for the Kanter Corp.

Jobless rate drop sparks inflation fears

By JOHN CUNNIF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are one of the 4.4 million to 4.7 million jobless members of the labor force you can hardly be expected to appreciate the administration's attitude toward the unemployment rate.

That rate is now down to 5 per cent of the work force, lowest since July 1970. It is falling rather steadily now, and conceivably could be somewhere around 4.5 per cent late in the year.

But already the administration has made clear its fear that the rate might drop too swiftly. Yes, fear; that a jobless rate of less than 4.5 per cent might signal more inflation.

It has, therefore, set that rate as an end-of-the-year goal.

By what logic can idleness purposely be tolerated? The explanation goes something like this:

If the jobless rate is descending it means the economy is expanding and absorbing once idle workers. This is healthy, to a point, but it also could signal the onset of inflation.

This has been the story of free economics. They often seek to produce more than their capacity to produce and when that happens it means that supply is insufficient to meet demand. Up go prices.

Wages might rise and be an element in those prices, but even more importantly, labor costs rise. There is a difference; wages could rise 50 per cent a year if productivity rose 50 per cent. That wouldn't be inflationary.

But, when the demand for workers is high, such as in an expansion, there is a tendency for the less productive workers to be used. They are less skilled or lack motivation or proper work habits, or may have other deficiencies.

Speed up this process and you run the risk of throwing elements of the expansion out of balance. A sharp demand for labor, for example, might push up labor costs and then prices, leading to demands for higher wages to meet prices, and so on until a self-sustaining spiral is generated.

The fear of rekindled inflation is illustrated by figures for the fourth quarter of 1972 showing that labor costs per unit of output rose at an annual rate of 3 per cent, after having fallen for two straight quarters.

Those who seek a red inflation signal in the falling jobless rate use these statistics to indicate that caution is advised. It isn't that they're against that rate falling; they fear the descent of its descent.

If we manage to keep the expansion in balance, they say, we can continue to put more and more people to work. And if the economy grows slowly but soundly, without inflation, we can test lower and lower rates, even to 4 per cent.

Osgood was in to check on the date and hour of the first winter session of CK-FN. Osgood will be on hand. And classes will start this week with a lively session on making an interesting and exciting vacation slide show. Come in for further info in these sessions. Or you could just ask Osgood.

It would appear that our place has become a sort of headquarters for the "Nix On O.S.H.A." Committee. The purpose of the committee is first to create enough understanding about OSHA to force Congress to repeal the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. It seems that those who have been affected most by OSHA still don't seem to be aware of how universal its effect has become. Project OSHA's role into the future and the prospect is awesome. If you wish more info on OSHA drop in and get a little publication by Alan Stang, titled OSHACRATS.

One other thing, have you used Agfacolor film for color prints yet? We saw a wedding shot with this film the other day and man, it was much. Don't mean to detract from the skill and ability of the photographer (that boy knew what he was doing) but the Agfacolor did a great job. Try it for yourself.

Commissioners OK Wissler Road bridge

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon authorized Fayette County Engineer Charles P. Wagner to proceed by force account on the construction of a new bridge on Wissler Road.

Commissioners also requested the engineer to supply an estimate on a Jeffersonville project, authorized the engineer to advertise for bids for a new pickup truck and approved a grant to the Senior Citizens Center.

Wagner informed the board that the low steel truss bridge over Thompson Fork Creek on Wissler Road in Paint Township is too weak for traffic, and the commissioners approved construction of a new bridge at a total cost of $17,233.

The existing span is 51 feet in length with a roadway width of 16 feet. The proposed new bridge will be 53 feet, five inches in length with roadway width of 24 feet.

Wagner said the existing abutment will be reshaped and lengthened to support the new prestressed concrete beams. The road will be closed for approximately two weeks.

THE BOARD also instructed Wagner to prepare specifications and costs for the Village of Jeffersonville on grading and excavating of Railroad Street between Ohio 41-N and Creamer Avenue, after receiving a letter from Mayor Donald M. Morrow requesting the assistance of the county engineer's office in the project.

The county engineer also was authorized to prepare specifications for a new $\frac{3}{4}$ ton pickup truck with the trade-in of $\frac{3}{4}$ ton 1960 model truck.

Wagner explained to commissioners the 1960 truck has a total of 95,000 miles registered on the speedometer and

Highland County youth held after forgery investigation

Sheriff's deputies have charged a 17-year-old Highland County youth with two counts of forgery in connection with two checks passed at Sagar Dairy Stores in January.

Sheriff Don Thompson said the youth, accompanied by an adult, had presented the two checks in the amounts of $30 and $45 Jan. 19 at Sagar's N. North Street and E. Elm Street stores.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Pamela J. Morrison, 1215 Rawlings St., has been granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court from James W. Morrison, Rt. 1, New Holland, on grounds of neglect and cruelty. Custody of a minor child was temporarily committed to the plaintiff's maternal grandmother. The defendant was ordered to pay child support and a property settlement was approved by the court.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED

Richard and Ralph Davidson, Rt. 4, Washington C.H., and the Ohio Insurance Association, Bellville, have filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Mason and Lawrence of Ohio, Inc., Urbana, and Railoc, Inc., Plainfield, Ill., seeking a total of $44,869.86 in damages.

According to the petition the plaintiffs purchased a Ribstone Silo from Mason and Lawrence of Ohio Inc., Feb. 18, 1967 which was erected with steel bands manufactured by Railoc, Inc. and later purchased an extension from the same firm which was also erected with steel bands from Railoc, Inc. The silo was filled and started to bulge and lean and collapsed Sept. 26, 1971, the petition states. The silo was warranted to be free of all defects and safe for use as a container of silage, it is stated.

The Ohio Insurance Association, which had insured the equipment and material, asks judgment of $26,750 and the Davidsons are seeking damages of $18,119.86.

Hitskip accident

City police investigated a minor hitskip mishap in the municipal parking lot Monday afternoon. Officers said a parked car owned by Theodore L. Quesenberry, of 1111 S. Main St., was struck in the left rear by a vehicle that left the scene.

More than 98 per cent of all persons are taken in a motor vehicle.

The arrest culminated several weeks of investigation by sheriff's deputies into checks passed in Fayette and Clinton counties over the past several weeks.

The youth was ordered released into the custody of his parents by Judge Omar A. Schwart pending a Juvenile Court appearance. Charges against the adult who accompanied the youth are expected to be filed later, sheriff's deputies said.

A 23-year-old Columbus man wanted in Detroit, Mich., on a breaking and entering charge was arrested here by police early Tuesday.

Elmore W. Patterson, 23, Columbus, was taken into custody after a computer check disclosed that he is wanted in the Michigan city.

Patterson was arrested by Patrolman Larry Hott after a routine check on a suspicious car. Two other men in the car with Patterson were not held.

Patterson presently is lodged in the city jail awaiting extradition procedures.

Two Florida runaways were picked up by sheriff's deputies Monday evening and are currently awaiting their parents in the county jail.

The two youths, both 15 years of age, were hitchhiking on U.S. 35 at I-71 when they were apprehended by Deputy Charles Wise.

Wise said the two gave fictitious names and claimed they had their parents' permission to hitchhike to Cleveland. The youths were brought to the sheriff's office where they were questioned further and their parents contacted. Both youths were from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Wounded Senator worse Hope fading for Stennis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The condition of Sen. John C. Stennis worsened following new surgery today and a hospital spokesman said his chance of recovery "is considered grave." The senator was shot twice in a holdup a week ago.

The 71-year-old Mississippi Democrat was in the operating room at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for 45 minutes after doctors suspected a blockage had developed in his small intestine, said hospital spokesman Dr. Frank Garland.

He said that while no blockage was found, "this additional surgery has resulted in a worsening" of Stennis' condition. "He remains very seriously ill and the prognosis is considered grave," Garland added at a 6 a.m. EST, news briefing.

Stennis' wife, Coy, and his son, John

Senate hurls new challenge at President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring reports of possible vetoes, the Senate has moved to spend more for airport improvements than the President wants and to call back his already-installed budget director for a confirmation hearing.

By a 65-15 vote, the Senate Monday passed a $450-million bill that would boost the federal government's share of airport improvements from 50 to 75 per cent.

Then, by a 63-17 vote, the Senate passed a bill requiring confirmation of all directors of the Office of Management and Budget, starting with Roy L. Ash, who was sworn in last week.

Neither bill has passed the House. Some Senate Republicans said last week that a veto of the bill requiring confirmation of Ash probably could be expected in view of the fact he has been sworn in. Since the Senate confirms junior military officers, why shouldn't it confirm the man who writes the nation's budget? asked Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., manager of the OMB bill.

Ervin and other backers say the budget director is the second-most-powerful man in the nation.

"The budgetary process of the United States makes a mockery of democracy," said Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn. "There is no room for citizen or congressional participation until the budget comes here to us as a total package conceived in the most-complete secrecy in government."

The actions are the latest in a series designed to strengthen what many in Congress believe is White House usurping of their constitutional powers. They say they alone have the power to set specific spending levels.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The FBI announced here today it has arrested Charles E. Hartman, 20, formerly of Van Wert, Ohio, and charged him with the Jan. 25 robbery of the First National Bank of Celina in Mendon.

Great snoutdog controversy hits Agriculture Department

By G. DAVID WALLACE

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department, once site of the fatdog controversy, now is center of a more vocal battle: what could be called the snoutdog dispute.

Consumers were virtually unanimous four years ago in pressuring the government to roll back fat levels in hot dogs. But they are split on whether to permit hot dogs and other cooked sausages to contain meat byproducts such as hearts, livers, tongues, spleens and snouts.

GRAFFITI

THE FIRST PERSON TO SEE THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL IS THE LANDLORD

Hampton Stennis, and daughter, Mrs. Margaret Syme, were at the hospital during the night. Members of his staff also were present.

Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and one of the most influential members of the Congress. First elected to the Senate in 1947, he ranks seventh in seniority among the 100 senators.

He was shot twice in front of his home last Tuesday evening by two male teenagers after they robbed him of his wallet and wristwatch. Police said Stennis offered no resistance in the robbery, but the youths decided to shoot him anyway.

The FBI and police have not arrested any suspects.

Stennis, who stayed conscious and walked 50 feet into his house after the shooting, underwent 6½ hours of emergency surgery at the medical center.

A hospital spokesman said his general good health was a factor in his favor, but Stennis' condition was listed throughout the week as very serious, the hospital's designation for its most gravely ill patients.

Stennis has been conscious during much of the time and he was moved from intensive care into the hospital's Presidential Suite on Sunday. He was granted a request to wear his own pajamas.

But the hospital said a change in his condition occurred overnight.

Corona given 25 separate life terms

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Juan V. Corona has begun serving 25 consecutive life prison terms for the slaughter of 25 itinerant farm workers found buried two years ago in peach orchards along the Feather River.

The Mexican national was sentenced Monday by Superior Court Judge Richard Patton while a crowd of some 250 young Mexican-Americans demonstrated in support of Corona outside the white-columned Solano County courthouse. One demonstrator was arrested for malicious mischief.

The judge pronounced sentence in the largest mass murder trial in U.S. history after rejecting a defense motion for a new trial based on charges of jury tampering — involving a conversation between a sheriff's matron and a juror the night before Corona was convicted.

Patton also had defense attorney Richard Hawk arrested in the courtroom. The judge ordered him to begin serving immediately 54 days of a total of 74 days in jail for contempt of court citations issued during the four-month trial.

Two prosecutors face seven-day sentences, which they were given time to appeal. All three attorneys were cited for violating the judge's instructions that they not discuss any aspects of the case outside the courtroom.

Corona rose silently to his feet after Patton pronounced: "The order of the court is that the defendant be punished by confinement in the state prison for life."

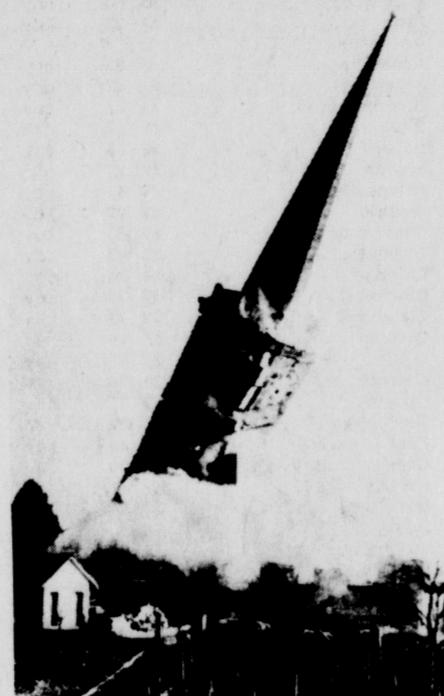

The byproducts aren't in all hot dogs and their presence must be disclosed on package labels. But even limited presence disturbs those that want them out. The byproducts are nutritious and cheap, say those who want them left in.

The Agriculture Department received 604 opinions from the public during the fat controversy. At the halfway point in the time allotted for comment on a proposal to ban byproducts in all cooked sausages except those labeled imitation, the department had received 600 letters.

"I refuse to feed hot dogs to my family. I've talked to many who feel the same," wrote Billie R. King of Huntington, Ind. "We never knew byproducts meant lips, snouts, spleens, etc. It's nauseating."

"We have been eating sausage as we have for as many years as I can remember and I assume it has always included these so-called offal products," wrote Madeline Bubernik of St. Louis, Mo. "I also assume that government controls assure me that it is wholesome and sanitary and therefore nutritious. So please leave the sausage just the way it is and save the housewife another unwarranted price increase."

The only cost estimates submitted so far were from the Gwaltney division of ITT. The Smithfield, Va., packer estimated banning the byproducts outright would cost the industry $42 million a year and raise prices to shoppers by 15 to 20 cents a pound.

Penn Central faces strike

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The United Transportation Union will strike the Penn Central Transportation Co. at 12:01 a.m. Thursday if the railroad goes ahead with its plans to cut the size of train crews, a UTU spokesman said today.

The union had threatened to strike Jan. 12, but the walkout was postponed while talks in the dispute continued in Washington.

The UTU spokesman said the talks broke off Friday, but that the union was willing to return to the bargaining table "anytime."

The dispute over the size of train crews started early last year. About 6,000 jobs reportedly are involved, but Penn Central says it would be "a matter of attrition," with jobs being eliminated as workmen quit, die or retire.

The bankrupt Penn Central wants to eliminate one of the three crewmen now required on its trains. It had secured an order approving the crew reduction from U.S. District Court Judge John Fullam in Philadelphia. Judge Fullam is overseeing the reorganization of the railroad.

The News In Brief

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A group of guerrillas which the Dominican government says landed from Cuba apparently was still at large today, and the government was also hunting ex-President Juan Bosch, claiming he was involved.

Bosch, from a hiding place somewhere in the country, said the government's charges against him were all lies.

Two prosecutors face seven-day sentences, which they were given time to appeal. All three attorneys were cited for violating the judge's instructions that they not discuss any aspects of the case outside the courtroom.

Corona rose silently to his feet after Patton pronounced: "The order of the court is that the defendant be punished by confinement in the state prison for life."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., today proposed a "counter budget" changing spending priorities and trimming $4 billion from President Nixon's $268.7 budget for the next fiscal year.

A $10-billion cut in Nixon budgets for defense, foreign aid, space, public works and highways would be accompanied by a $6-billion increase for other domestic programs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four U.S. Navy minesweepers were ordered today to begin clearing an anchorage 35 miles off Haiphong harbor to serve as a base of operations for later sweeping of mines from North Vietnamese ports.

Both law officials say they do not yet have conclusive evidence to tie one man to the eight murders, all of them committed against young, white women and all by strangulation or suffocation.

As Boston-area law officials work on the most recent series of killings, their counterparts on the suburban North Shore are investigating a wave of rapes.

Two attempted rapes last weekend in that area brought the number of such attacks and attempted attacks to 13 since November. In nearly every case, police say the attacker approaches his victim wearing a ski mask and takes her to a deserted area where he is joined by another man.

But the focus of police is on the murders of the young women. All were between 18 and 29. Most were sexually attacked. Four were college students. At least four were last seen hitchhiking. A fifth may have met her death when she picked up a hitchhiker.

The murders have brought comparisons to the Boston Strangler slayings of 1960.

One veteran lawman, who asked not to be identified, said the two cases are similar only in that "when you're faced with something like this, you don't know what the hell to expect next."

He said the pattern in the recent killing is not as consistent or as pronounced as were the 1960 strangulations.

the most recent series of killings, their counterparts on the suburban North Shore are investigating a wave of rapes.

Two attempted rapes last weekend in that area brought the number of such attacks and attempted attacks to 13 since November. In nearly every case, police say the attacker approaches his victim wearing a ski mask and takes her to a deserted area where he is joined by another man.

But the focus of police is on the murders of the young women. All were between 18 and 29. Most were sexually attacked. Four were college students. At least four were last seen hitchhiking. A fifth may have met her death when she picked up a hitchhiker.

The murders have brought comparisons to the Boston Strangler slayings of 1960.

Protestants call strike

BELFAST (AP) — Protestant militants are calling a one-day strike throughout Northern Ireland Wednesday to protest the first use against them of the new antiterrorist laws.

The Protestants, allied in the United Loyalist Council, are protesting the detention without trial of two members of the vigilante Ulster Defense Association, William Halsall, 23, and Sam Macready, 20.

New car woes bring action

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — John Bottles, 26, grew weary of continuing woes with his new car, and called the dealer late Monday night.

"Bring it in and leave a note with it," dealer Walt Sweeney told Bottles, of Hamilton.

Bottles complied. About 4 a.m. today he drove his 1972 Vega through a glass service door at Sweeney Chevrolet in nearby Springfield.

Bottles left the car parked by the service desk.

Police estimated damage to the dealership at about $300. The car was not damaged.

Sweeney said he would not press charges.

White House, Congress set impoundment battle lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's top domestic adviser says White House refusal to spend funds approved by Congress is legal and necessary for the good of the country, despite what critics say.

Congressional "appropriation isn't the last word" in the spending process, John D. Ehrlichman said in an interview Monday. "Whenever it's possible for the executive to save money, it's incumbent upon him to do so."

Such refusal to spend—impoundment, it is called—under attack in Congress and under investigation in Senate hearings, "has been the presidential prerogative ever since Thomas Jefferson," Ehrlichman said.

"And every president has felt obliged to exercise control, in the national interest, over the expenditure of moneys."

A report to Congress Monday, the White House said the Nixon administration is withholding $8.7 billion appropriated by Congress during the present fiscal year. But that figure does not include $6 billion in water-pollution funds the President has refused to allocate.

Senate hearings on the impoundments begin today in the subcommittee on separation of powers,

UAW readies pact demands

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hints about what the United Auto Workers union wants this year in contracts with the three largest American automakers began emerging today.

UAW Vice President Douglas Woodcock, who heads the union's skilled trades conference, was the principal speaker for today's opening session of the three-day International Skilled Trades Conference on Collective Bargaining.

The three days of sessions for skilled trades workers, those serving lengthy apprenticeships or training periods, are only a prelude to direct negotiations between the union and officials of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Before talks on new three-year contracts begin in July, the union will have a similar session for production line workers in Atlanta next week and a special collective bargaining convention in Detroit March 22-24.

Most of the conversation before the sessions began here centered upon dental insurance, retirement at any age after 30 years employment, putting overtime on a strictly voluntary basis and protecting the work of skilled

Mayors show how fund loss hurts

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen parks that the city of New Orleans wanted to create this year are in jeopardy. Detroit, which hired 18,480 youths last summer, may not be able to hire any this summer.

Mayors Moon Landrieu of New Orleans and Roman Gribbs of Detroit offered these examples as they began to assess the impact on their cities if domestic spending cuts proposed by President Nixon are not reversed.

The two Democrats were here to meet colleagues on the U.S. Conference of Mayors' Legislative Action Committee and to attend a conference on cable television. The Mayors had met Sunday to attack the budget publicly and privately plan strategy for pressing their objections.

Landrieu and Gribbs, who is president of the National League of Cities, sister organization to the Conference of Mayors, had been upset that newsmen asking for the total impact of the budget proposals got no specific answer, so on Monday they began counting their misfortunes.

Gribbs detailed federal cuts in ongoing programs during fiscal 1974 totaling $165.4 million, with several programs yet to be calculated when more information on the proposed budget becomes available.

Landrieu calculated a loss of $18.7 million for the same period on Model Cities, Office of Economic Opportunity and park programs alone. Figures for other programs had not been determined, in some cases because the city had not received word on whether its applications were affected by freezes on federal spending.

Auto suspects held

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Two Dayton men are in custody in connection with Sgt. Lester Commins of suburban Wyoming says may be an automobile theft ring. Commins said the men were listed as Morris W. Davis, 33, and James Thompson, 27.

San Diego transport plan could bring ban on autos

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — With luck and a little help from the federal government, the automobile could be a thing of the past in downtown San Diego within five years, a city planner says.

In its place could be electric-powered, one-car "people movers," rolling quietly above the city at 30 miles an hour on elevated concrete tracks, linking peripheral parking garages with any downtown street corner in five minutes. City streets, meanwhile, would be for pedestrians only.

How much will MAC system cost? The planners don't know yet.

Amanda youth killed

AMANDA, Ohio (AP) — James Waits, 10, of Amanda, died of head injuries in a hospital at Columbus Monday night after falling about 15-feet from railroad trestle and hitting his head on a pipe imbedded in the ground. Fairfield County Sheriff's deputies said.

chaired by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said in remarks for the panel that the Nixon administration is using impoundment powers not just to save money but "as a bad instrument of economic policy."

In a statement more critical of Congress than of Nixon, Byrd, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, said "worthwhile programs are victimized along with those that are unworthy and which we ourselves have shown neither the wisdom nor the guts to terminate."

"Too many of us over the years," Byrd said, "have virtually outdone ourselves in currying the favor of organized pressure groups that advocate more and more spending as the solution for more and more problems, this being the way to get more and more votes. The result: more and more deficits."

But in calling for greater restraints in spending along the lines Nixon has pursued, Byrd emphasized he thinks Congress should assert more control and "protect its constitutional authority to determine how the people's moneys will be spent, how much will be spent, and for what purposes."

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Weather Service's summary of Ohio weather:

It was cloudy throughout most of Ohio Monday night and occasional light showers fell over the southern counties early Tuesday morning. Just before daybreak most temperatures were in the upper 30s and low 40s ranging from 33 to 30 Toledo and Findlay to 45 at Marietta.

A weak nearly stationary front was located on the morning weather map extending through Virginia and Kentucky to Alabama. Weak low pressure disturbances along this front have brought the showery weather into southern Ohio. Farther west a cold front extending from Minnesota to eastern Kansas is pushing eastward across the plains. This front is expected to move into western Ohio early Wednesday and on eastward across the state during the day.

Mostly cloudy skies are in store for the larger part of the state for the next couple of days. A trend to cooler will develop with temperatures dropping into the 20s across the state Wednesday night and cool weather is expected to continue for the balance of the week.

Cold Thursday through Saturday with a chance of snow Saturday. Highs in the upper 20s and 30s. Lows

Runaway girl being sought; desperately needs surgery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 17-year-old girl who ran away from home last week is in serious need of an operation, but doesn't know it, her family revealed this week.

The Alfred Kolasky family of suburban North Ridgeville said they think their daughter Jill ran away from home because she thought she was pregnant.

But her mother said she is not pregnant and that she had merely mistaken the symptoms of ovarian cysts that will have to be removed or she may die.

The girl's twin sister, Janice, un-

NCR plans 1,800 layoffs

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A National Cash Register Co. spokesman says about 1,800 of the company's white-collar workers will be laid off in the next few months.

Chairman Robert Oelman said Monday the layoff involves personnel in management, clerical and administrative positions at the company's headquarters here. The move is the result of a "corporate-wide cost-reduction program" at NCR, Oelman said.

He said the purpose is to "streamline operations and improve efficiency and profitability in all areas of operation" and duplication of efforts and unnecessary functions will be eliminated.

Oelman said NCR is looking at several areas in an attempt to streamline operations and it was not certain how other plants would be affected. No "sizeable reduction" of workers is expected at the Cambridge, Ohio, plant, he said.

The last major layoff of NCR workers was last summer when about 2,000 blue collar employees were released as the company affected a changeover to electronic products, Oelman said.

derwent the same operation in December, and Mrs. Kolasky said they had planned for Jill to have surgery in the middle of April.

But because Jill had been upset by her sister's operation, Mrs. Kolasky said, the family had not told her of her condition even though her parents realized she thought she was pregnant.

Mrs. Kolasky said they were told by Jill's doctor that the cysts will have to be removed before they burst. That could kill the girl, she said the doctor told them.

But Jill, unaware of her condition, apparently could stand the pressure no longer.

She left for school Friday morning wearing blue jeans, a red top and a silver-gray fur jacket. She never arrived.

On Monday the family received a letter postmarked in Elyria, just west of North Ridgeville, and mailed Friday. The letter said in part, "Please, for the sake of me and my baby, don't send (my boyfriend) to jail."

A bus station in the area reported selling two tickets Friday night to Kokomo, Ind., to two young people who fit the description of Jill and her boyfriend.

The girl is 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, has hazel eyes and long reddish-brown hair.

'All-American Girl' gets

No. 2 post on GOP panel

By BILL STALL

Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The Republican party's new co-chairman is a pretty blonde who fits the image of the All-American girl — with a touch of Tom Swift ingenuity.

She is Janet Johnston, a 33-year-old native Californian who grew up on her family's 700-acre ranch and became a successful businesswoman, grass roots political worker and sometimes inventor.

Miss Johnston was appointed to the party's No. 2 job Monday by George Bush, the Republican national chairman.

Since last August, she has been California's Republican national committeewoman, the youngest member of the party's national ruling body.

As a girl, Miss Johnston drove a tractor at harvest time on the family ranch near Winters, a small farming community 30 miles west of Sacramento.

By necessity, she became handy at mechanics and worked on electrical projects as a 4-H club member. All this came in handy when she decided to devise an emergency signal system of flashing lights now standard on automobiles.

The idea came to her in 1962 while she was commuting daily to junior college in Sacramento, crossing a narrow causeway.

"Cars needed a warning system you could operate immediately without getting out to get a flare," she said. "The lights and the wiring were all there already. The only thing that was new was hooking everything together. That was the innovative part," she related.

It was innovative enough to enable Miss Johnston to obtain the patent on the flashing light system.

"I was born and raised on a ranch and when something breaks down you learn to put it together," she said.

In recent years, Miss Johnston managed the ranch with her father, but still found time to teach piano, paint and draw, compete in shows with her Arabian horse "Othello" and water ski.

Snow storm hits Rockies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A winter storm plastered the eastern slopes of the northern Rockies with snow today as rain spilled into the midcontinent and sections of the Far West.

Eight inches of snow piled up at Butte, Mont., during the night.

Rain dampened much of California, and moist air moving up the lower Mississippi Valley touched off thunderstorms as far north as the Ohio Valley.

Subzero cold spread over the upper Missouri River Valley and well into the Northern Plains.

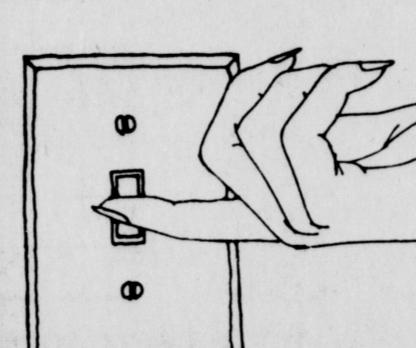

Mostly clear skies prevailed from the Southern Plateau to the Southern Plains and along the Atlantic Coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -3 at Minot, N.D., to 67 at Key West, Fla.

Aid for endangered species

It is a truism that environmental concern is on the rise throughout the world. For the first time in the long history of man's exploitation of his native planet's resources, there is widespread understanding that certain basic things must now be done on a global scale.

It is coming to be understood that we must conserve and make optimum use of Earth's finite resources - fossil fuels, minerals, forests, the very land itself. There is a growing conviction, too, that steps must be taken to reduce manifold pollution and other harm to the human environment. A related concern is to protect the animal and plant life which form such an important part of man's natural heritage.

Any significant movement in this direction is cause for rejoicing. Just such an advance was made the other day in Moscow when U.S.-Soviet agreements on joint effort to conserve endangered species were signed. The two countries undertake to work together closely on research and studies, and on implementing a variety of protection and development measures.

The agreements, rooted in the environmental pact reached at the summit conference last May, cover a wide range of activity. There will be an exchange of specialists in the field, and a concerted educational effort in both countries. This is a most promising involvement of the two superpowers, one that should give fresh impetus to such effort in many other parts of the world.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Rogers hailed for peace efforts

WASHINGTON — The soft spot in the Nixon generation of peace is today, as for many years, the Middle East. Yet, for all the bluster out of the Arab world, the chances for at least an interim settlement are better than at any time since the six-day war in 1967.

And this hopeful prospect owes a lot to President Nixon's initiatives with Moscow and Peking.

With the press of other events a significant meeting held in New York recently went largely unreported. By the ancient formula of man-bites-dog it was news of the first order.

Not only was there praise for Secretary of State William P. Rogers, rare enough in itself, but it came from Jacob Stein, chairman of the Conference of Presidents of major Jewish organizations. The occasion was a dinner honoring Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin, who will retire following the visit to Washington of Prime Minister Golda Meir at the end of February.

IN A LOW-KEY speech Rogers said he was convinced that both sides, Arabs and Israelis, want a settlement based on the United Nations Security Council resolution of November, 1967, calling for the return of the territories occupied in the six-day war. But recognizing that this proposal has been kicked back and forth, achieving little except acrimony, he went on to say that the most realistic approach would be to begin negotiations on an interim agreement reopening the Suez Canal. He proposed the following steps:

separate the military forces of both sides still positioned along the canal; reinforce the cease-fire; a partial Israeli withdrawal; and finally the opening of the canal to international commerce. The speech contained no reference to the U.N. peace efforts or the unhappy mission of Gunnar Jarring. This was a welcome omission for the Israelis, since they had been dead set against the initial Rogers peace plan with the incorporation of a role for a U.N. mission.

BOTH Rabbi Stein and Ambassador Rabin praised Rogers for initiating the cease-fire that brought an end to the shooting in June, 1970. Rabin called it the most important development in the nearly six years since the six-day war.

"The cease-fire in the main front of the hostilities between Israel and the Arab states, along the Suez Canal, has since been followed by a virtual cessation of fire along the Jordan River and now on the Lebanese-Israeli border as well. All of these are direct results of that interim cease-fire which you, Mr. Secretary, proposed and achieved in spite of doubts and hesitations on the part of both sides of the conflict," Rabin said.

The Nixon Administration, with Rogers the principal sponsor, intends to have an active part in furthering the next step toward peace. But for the short term the policy is one of wait and see. This is to take account of the procession of visitors with a lot to say about the Middle East.

King Hussein of Jordan is arriving with his position more solid than at any time since his warfare with the Palestinian guerrillas. Jordan is realigned with the Arab military front, but Hussein has not compromised with the Dayeene, keeping in close control of the guerrilla units on Jordanian territory. With a comprehensive, well-thought-out plan Jordan's economic position has shown a marked improvement.

THE KEY, as always, is Egypt. President Anwar el-Sadat failed to take in the significance of the Nixon initiatives with Peking and Moscow. He was unprepared for the withdrawal of Soviet support and the denial by Moscow of the kind of missilery that would have opened the way to an attack on Israeli cities. Whether Sadat has a sufficient hold on the army to start an interim negotiation is the unknown X.

Time is for many reasons running out. Rabbi Stein noted recent testimony that within 10 years the United States would be importing a third of its oil from the Arab states on the Persian Gulf. That degree of dependence will give the oil-rich Arabs a powerful lever on American policy. It will also inflate huge treasures that can be diverted to support war and threats of war against the enemy Israel.

With benign neglect from the Soviet Union as the United States pursues an activist and yet low-profile policy, there is a glimmer of hope on the Eastern horizon. It owes a lot to Secretary Rogers.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Just What is relevant?

Should universities and colleges give up a year's academic credit for "relevant" activities off campus? One of the complaints students have had over the years — often with substantial basis in fact — is that classroom activities stifle their creativity.

As a young man quoted in the New York Times put it, "Classroom experience becomes meaningless after a while and you look for ways to put your learning in the context of the real world." To facilitate this sort of furlough from the ivory tower the Federal ACTION program has enrolled more than a thousand students from 24 colleges in various community action projects.

To old-line academicians, the automatic response to this sort of proposal is harsh and negative. In contrast, the addicts of academic chic automatically rush to its defense. As usual, I find myself occupying a rather lonely position where the key questions are "What kind of activity?" and "What kind of oversight?"

FOR OPENERS, it is preposterous to give academic credit to students simply for learning about life. If I had to look back on my life so far, I would say that the three most "relevant" experiences were (1) three years in the Army; (2) marriage; and (3) fatherhood. Each of these was traumatic in the sense that it profoundly altered my view of the world. None of them could be taught in the classroom; their lessons were personal and existential.

By any reasonable index of "relevance" then — I would submit — one should get at least a year's academic credit for each. (Indeed, reading this my wife indicates that in her view, marrying me merited a doctorate!) To broaden the base somewhat, we can all applaud the efforts that students make to, say, counsel prison inmates, work with the elderly, organize community recreation programs. They will, one hopes, learn a great deal. A few years back one of my students ran for city council (and won) and others have been active in local, state and national politics. They too have acquired a good deal of "relevant" knowledge and even some wisdom.

But should they receive academic credit? Under certain very limited circumstances, Yes. To take another case, a senior working with me spent an entire semester in Washington with a Representative, but this was not an academic free ride. He used his experience to write a superb honors thesis, returned for an oral examination by three members of the faculty, and emerged with a "summa." Over the course of the semester he was in constant touch with me and two other instructors, constantly raising questions for our consideration.

I can conceive of someone receiving credit for a year's military service on the same basis, that is, if he utilized his experience as data for a thesis in, say, race relations on an aircraft carrier. This would be a true exercise in "relevance."

THE HOOK is that all such projects require faculty work. As anyone who has taken it seriously can testify, the supervision of student research — which of necessity is done on a one-to-one basis — is appallingly time-consuming.

If, after 25 years in the trenches, I couldn't — on roughly an hour's notice — give a lecture to 600 students on Plato, Hobbes or the seniority system in Congress, I should be put out to pasture. But individual reading and research projects call for an entirely different sort of faculty in-put.

They are worth it — my students are constantly educating me — but they are demanding.

Thus the question I want answered before I vote academic credit for "relevant experience" is: Has this relevant experience been subjected to academic evaluation? Or are institutions of higher education merely passing out academic bonuses for growing up?

My faith in the essential wisdom of St. Augustine leads me to expect the worst, that most of the students in these programs are simply on their own, that their instructors have waved bye-bye and said "do look me up next fall."

Hal Boyle . . . Ordeal of parenthood

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the hardest ordeals of parenthood is facing up to the realization that after a certain age your children use home only as a resting place between flights that take them farther and farther away.

The house seems so empty when they have gone.

That is the way my apartment seems now — now that my daughter, trailing clouds of exhaust smoke that obscured the ecology of our neighborhood, has driven off for another try at higher education.

As a freshman last year, Tracy Ann loved picturesque little Windham College and its lovely hillside setting in old Putney, Vt., but failed to set any scholastic records.

So she decided to take a semester off, a decision I acceded to reluctantly only on her promise that she would return to school at the end of that time. It has become commonplace now for thousands of young students to drop out of college for a time in order, as so many of them say, "to find myself."

Whether this is a good or bad thing, generally, I can't say. In Tracy's case, I suppose, the answer still depends on whether she goes on now to make college a meaningful part of her life.

Certainly, however, she has matured considerably during her semester off. During this period she wrangled a job as copy boy. Although she did her work well, she came early to a realization

Opening lead - four of diamonds.

There is often considerable guesswork during the play and, if you are by nature a good guesser, you will do well in the long run.

All the same, a good card player doesn't subject himself to a guess if he can avoid it. He may guess as well as the next fellow when he has to, but his chief stock-in-trade is a talent for dodging guesses and solving his problems by other — and more reliable — means.

Charles Fenerty of Lower Sackville, Halifax County, Nova Scotia, was a co-discoverer, in 1839, of the groundwood pulping process that today supplies most of the world's newsprint.

Assume you're West, defending against five hearts. You could lead a spade, of course, because partner raised spades, but your best chance of producing a profit lies in leading a diamond.

You have a right to hope partner has an ace, in which case you're apt to beat the contract when you get in with the ace of trumps, put partner on lead with his ace, and get a diamond ruff for a one-trick set.

Declarer wins your diamond lead with the ace and plays a low heart to the queen. Right then and there it is easy to go wrong. If you take the ace and play a spade to partner's presumed ace, you wind up behind the eight ball.

Declarer would win the spade, draw trumps, and so make the contract.

You could plead that East was more likely to have the spade ace than the club ace, but that would not be a good excuse for failing to guess which one he actually had.

Instead of consigning this guess to pure chance, it is far better to duck the first trump lead and take the second. This gives your illustrious partner a chance to signal with a high spade or a high club, depending on his hand, and in that way eliminate the element of doubt.

Ohio Perspective

New uniform probate code plan proposed

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio is being asked to follow the lead of Idaho and Alaska in the adoption of a uniform probate code which figures to rule large numbers of Ohio Lawyers.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, is sponsoring the legislation. He claims it would save millions of dollars and enable citizens to settle estates cheaper and quicker.

Himself a lawyer, the 38-year-old Mottl says passage of the bill would cost him "thousands of dollars" since he does a substantial amount of probate work.

But he adds: "This bill would save millions in attorney fees and court costs each year . . . in curtailing the amount of probate work necessary to transfer the assets (of an estate) to the heirs."

Mottl says he is hopeful, but admits he will face a powerful group of lobbyists if his bill begins to move. They are the lawyers who would stand to lose a good source of income, probate judges whose authority would be diminished since they would have little to do with most estates, and bonding companies who would lose business since bonds in most cases no longer would be required.

He says the bill simplifies and reduces, in many cases by as much as two-thirds, the cost of passing an estate from one spouse to another or from one generation to another. It would require only the amount of legal work and court contact "appropriate to the size of the estate," he explained.

Attorney fees and related expense, under present law, can claim 10-15 per cent.

The bill provides that in estates in which there is no will or a will is declared invalid, a surviving spouse would receive everything in most estates up to $50,000, and a greater share than now in those estates which are larger than $50,000.

Most low and middle income estates could be administered summarily.

The bill provides, in most cases and except when specified in a will, three options to choose from: No administration, informal administration in which an unbonded representative could be appointed, and supervised administration.

The bill retains protections for creditors, but they must file claims within four months after publication of notice that a representative has been appointed, or within three years if no representative was appointed.

Mottl has an analysis of the uniform code from the Legislative Service Commission stating that present laws are "too costly and too complex," and have been severely criticized in recent years.

The LSC called the measure "one possible response to these charges."

State gaining in school aid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association says local property owners are still contributing the bulk of support for the state's public schools — but the state has made significant gains in providing more funds for elementary and secondary education.

In a release, the OEA said a report compiled by the National Education Association showed Ohio provides 33.1 per cent of the cost of public schools.

The OEA said that although still below the national average of 41 per cent, the figure is considerably higher than the 27.9 per cent of 1970-71, the last year before the education-finance-tax package generated by the state income tax became effective.

Occupational Cancer Studied

I have never read anything about the possible relationship between the kind of work a person does, and the formation of a cancer.

Is this too far-fetched an idea? For example, would people who work near firing furnaces be subject to cancer?

Mr. T.V., R.I.

Dear Mr. V.: It is interesting that your letter should coincide with a symposium devoted to the problem of occupational cancers.

This meeting took place in Geneva, Switzerland. A group of international scientists wanted to assess the problem and see if there was any relationship to cancer after exposure to heat, cold or chemicals.

It is accepted, of course, that people working in factories that produce luminous materials like watch dials may have a greater exposure to radium, and with it a tendency to bone cancers.

It is known, too, that miners of uranium do have a greater tendency to cancer of the lungs.

A survey has shown that X-ray technicians and doctors specializing in radiology may tend to develop skin cancers more readily than others.

Apparently, there is a distinct relationship between certain occupations and overexposure to carcinogenic (cancer-forming) substances.

Even though the mathematical frequency may be slight, intensive programs are now being instituted in all industries to record important information about the nature of the materials being used, and the degree to which workers are exposed to possible cancer-forming substances.

Industrial plants are being redesigned, and the most elaborate protective devices are being instituted.

An important safety factor depends entirely on the worker who frequently becomes careless in the use of protective devices.

I asked my druggist to renew a prescription. He refused to do it. I don't think this is fair to the customer.

Why should I have to pay another doctor bill to get the same prescription?

Miss R.L., Maine

Dear Miss L.: What seems to you "unfairness" is a procedure designed for your protection.

When doctors want prescriptions to be renewed at regular intervals they doctor and ask permission to repeat a prescription. With this permission, of course, the patient need not again visit the doctor.

When symptoms persist, another visit to the doctor may actually be necessary.

Hospital no place for a heart attack

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An elderly man was picked up in an ambulance in downtown Houston after he suffered an apparent heart attack. While being rushed to the hospital, he was given oxygen and regained consciousness. He raised up, asked the ambulance attendants where he was being taken. When they told him to the hospital, he leaped from the cot, opened the ambulance door and fled. Police were unable to locate him.

Father and son banquet planned

The annual father and son banquet has been planned for Feb. 13 at McNair Presbyterian Church. Dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. and the program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker will be John Randolph Osborne, Assistant Professor of Religion at Berea College, Berea, Ky. He is a graduate of Milligan College, Tenn., Christian Theological Seminary, Ind., Butler University, Ind., and has done further study at Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, and in Jerusalem.

Professor Osborne has spent the past six summers in Israel with the excavations of Tell Gezer, the ancient Old Testament City occupied in 3600 B.C. to 100 A.D. It was one of Solomon's chariot cities on the coastal plain of Palestine.

They request gifts be omitted.

Founder's Day dance scheduled

Mrs. Paul Johnson was hostess Monday evening for the regular meeting of Phi Beta Psi Sorority. Assisting hostess for the evening was Mrs. Allen Willoughby. Program chairman, Mrs. Larry Lehman, introduced Claudia Becht, the AFS student from Aachen, Germany, who showed slides and spoke of her native country. She answered questions concerning the differences of the two countries.

Mrs. Verne Haugen, president, conducted the business meeting. The chapter will sponsor the Feb. 16 visit of the Red Cross Blood Mobile Unit at the First Christian Church, hours from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Committee chairman Mrs. Ben Roby announced that the annual Founder's Day Dance will be held at the Washington Country Club on Feb. 17, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., with the Luther Bolen Band.

HOMEMAKER — Kathleen C. Binzel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philip Binzel, 542 Washington Ave., has been named Washington Senior High School's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for 1973.

Selected on the basis of scores in written knowledge and attitude examination, she will receive a specially designed award and is eligible for state and national honors. The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, judged from all school winners, will receive a $1,500 college scholarship, and her school will be presented "The Annals of America", a 20-volume reference work. National winners, to be judged in Washington D.C., in April, will receive additional scholarships. Emily Beal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Beal, Ohio Rt. 22-E, was earlier named Miami Trace High School Homemaker of Tomorrow and will compete, along with Miss Binzel, for state and national honors.

All girls were presented the beads they earned, then they discussed the trip to LeSourdesville Lake on May 6.

Those present were Maurica Milstead, Crystal Bell, Jan Hanawalt, Nancy Binzel, Krista Upthegrove, Becky Annon, Robin Highfield, Teresa Hopson and Amy Boyer.

The next meeting will be at 10 a.m. Feb. 10. All girls are asked to bring scissors and glue.

We will meet at 1:55 p.m. Saturday at Murphys to sell the balloons for the Heart Fund.

'Open house' planned for anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cummings, 1870 Little Rd., Jamestown, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at "open house" in Grape Grove Church of Christ, Jamestown.

Mrs. Cummings, the former Pauline Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hersel Long, of Jamestown, is employed at Greenview School as a fourth grade teacher. Her husband is on the staff at Wittenberg University, Springfield.

They were married Feb. 14, 1948, in the Latonia Church of Christ, Covington, Ky., by the Rev. Herbert T. Steucher.

The open house is being given by their nieces, Jill Long, Sharon Adair and Beverly Walhall.

They request gifts be omitted.

doesn't. He just stomps up and down outside the network offices, damning and praising their shows.

Sinbad was asked for his autograph last week and I fear it went to his head. He's starting to talk the way big city critics write. This was noticed the other day when I asked him how things were going.

"Profoundly moving ... disturbing," he said.

"How so?"

"By what appears, hopefully, to be very fresh and funny, a near class in the established TV genre of sociological fantasy."

"What genre?" ... A laugh riot. See it!"

"Se what?"

"... A bravura performance."

"A what?"

"A delight to the eye and ear."

"What are you talking about?"

"Generally speaking, a great work translated with inspiration to the small screen."

"That's better."

"And it's not without merit."

"Do tell."

"It's brimming with suspense and romance ... terrifically entertaining ... a masterful romp."

"Come again?"

"MMM Somewhat contrived, sadder with a lackneyed plot."

"You're losing me."

"As a weekly regular, she should be than welcome in your living rooms."

"Not mine. I'm married."

"I shall await the next episode with great interest."

"Me, too, Sinbad. See you around."

"One of the season's best," he murmured. The he was gone.

Canton Lehman new leader

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For the first time this season, the Associated Press Ohio Class AAA high school basketball ratings have some room at the top.

They also have a new face, unbeaten Canton Lehman. Lehman whizzed around defending state champion

Cleveland East Tech into the top spot Monday.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters gave the Canton power 16-0, 219 points, a 41-point bulge on East Tech. The Scarabs had led Lehman by one and two points the last two weeks.

OSU surprises Hoosiers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—“This is better than those pills,” Fred Taylor chuckled over a 70-69 upset his Ohio State basketball squad pulled on fourth-ranked Indiana Monday night.

Taylor, 48, the national president of the college coaches, had just guided the Buckeyes for the first time in four games since chest pains sidelined him.

“I feel all right,” he said, reaching for a pill. “The biggest thing was when they found out there was nothing wrong with my ticker.”

Allan Hornyak’s free throw with five seconds provided Ohio State with its victory margin, and, in Taylor’s estimation, opened up the Big Ten race.

“I don’t think anybody’s dead in the conference yet,” said the dean of the Big Ten coaches, 48. “Obviously Indiana (6-1) is in better shape than anyone else with only one loss and half-way through its schedule.”

The triumph was only the third in six Big Ten games for the veteran Buckeyes. Indiana, its eight-game victory streak severed, is 14-3 and Ohio State 9-7 for all games.

“I don’t know about the conference race,” said Indiana mentor Bobby Knight, a former player under Taylor. “Who knows?”

The Hoosiers, despite 17 first-half errors and a five-point deficit with less than four minutes to go, still could have won in the closing seconds.

Indiana called two straight timeouts trying to pass the ball in after Hornyak’s foul shot. Knight said that was by design.

“We wanted to see how Ohio State would line up,” he explained. “We were trying to throw the ball to John Ritter, have him pivot at midcourt and give us a 3-on-3 situation.”

Freshman Jim Crews’ pass, however, was too high. It sailed off Ritter’s finger tips. Ohio State’s Dave Merchant stole the ball as time ran out.

“It was a game of missed opportunities for us,” Knight said. “Ohio State played like I figured—real well. They were playing hard on defense and forced us into mistakes.”

Hornyak and Wardell Jackson each scored 19 for the Buckeyes. Luke Witte, Ohio State’s 7-foot center who had lost his starting job to freshman Craig Taylor, delivered 18 points and a game-high 16 rebounds.

Steve Downing’s 22 points paced the Hoosiers. Ritter had 18, Steve Green 11 and Quinn Buckner 10.

In other Ohio college play, Lloyd Bates fired in a 25-foot jump shot for Cincinnati as the clock ran out Monday night to give the Bearcats an 81-79 win over the University of Louisville at Cincinnati.

Bates called his shot “the best one I ever made.”

The win gives Cincinnati a 12-8 record.

The University of Toledo battled hard, but wound up on the short end of a 79-74 contest with South Carolina.

The College of Steubenville crushed Alliance 75-43 and John Carroll downed Carnegie-Mellon 80-69.

Tonight’s contests show Ohio

University at Ball State, Dayton hosting Western Kentucky, Ohio Wesleyan at Capital, Mount Union at Oberlin, Otterbein at Muskingum, Ohio Northern at Denison, Walsh at Cedarville, Wilberforce hosting Shaw, Case Western Reserve entertaining Bethany and Findlay at Anderson.

City pin tourney to begin Feb. 18

The 23rd annual Washington C. H. Bowling Association’s city tournament will open Feb. 18 at Bowland Lanes, according to Tom Vrettos, tournament secretary.

Entries for the city bowling tournament, which is sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress, will close Feb. 11.

The team events phase of the tournament, of which Frisch’s Restaurant is the defending champion, will open the annual event Feb. 18 with action at 10 a.m., 12:30 p.m., and 3:30 p.m.

The doubles and singles portions will be held Feb. 25 starting at 10 a.m. and continuing with shifts at 12 a.m., 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Bowlers must compete in both the singles and doubles divisions.

Roger Grimm, president of the Washington C.H. Bowling Association, expects 35 teams for the team events portion, 100 bowlers in the singles division, 50 in the doubles and 100 in all-events.

WCH to draw tonight for tourney pairing

Washington C. H.’s Blue Lions will be one of 37 Central District Class AA teams drawing for positions tonight at the Jai Lai Restaurant in Columbus.

The teams open action in the sectional tournament on Feb. 21 or 22, 23 or 24 at four different sites.

The Class AA teams will play at Groveport, Westland, Newark and Marion. Following the weekends of Feb. 23-24 and March 2-3, the teams move into the Fairgrounds Coliseum for the district tournament to open bids for the regionals.

THE SURVIVORS in the Class AA division will qualify for the Steubenville and St. John Arena regionals which are scheduled March 16-17.

The Class A teams, which made pairings for their sectional tournaments Monday night, will play at Grove City, Lancaster and Mount Vernon. The winners will advance to the Canton Fieldhouse and University of Dayton.

The Class AAA teams will make their draws on Monday, Feb. 12 also at the Jai Lai.

Picking along with Washington C. H. tonight will be Bexley, Bishop Hartley, Bishop Ready, Grandview, Hamilton Township, Mifflin, Mohawk, DeSales, Watterson, Wehrle, Teays Valley, Bloom Carroll, Circleville, Logan Elm, Buckeye Valley, Olentangy, Dublin, Fredericktown, Heath, Hebron, Lakewood, Fairfield Union, Lancaster, Reemlin, London, Madison Plains, Elgin, River Valley, Marysville, Mount Gilead, Licking Valley, Watkins Memorial, Richwood, North Union, Sunbury, Big Walnut, Utica and West Jefferson.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 7

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Influences somewhat mixed. There may be more than meets the eye in some situations. Be alert, but not overly suspicious.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Favored for faster advancement: Business matters, research, aviation developments, theatrical experiments; scholars, scientists; statesmanship. A good day!

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Prospects for gain should have brightened during the last few weeks. Where you were perceptive, you now share in profits. Further benefits to come later, so keep striving.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

If investments were not too good, that is no reason to "go for broke" now, but neither does it mean tightening up, which disrupts healthy expansion. Let experience be your guide.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Gather more information about pending issues, and do not proceed if you do not have sufficient facts, know-how. An uneven day in spots, but you can accomplish much.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Be patient and practical in devising plans; shift quickly to a different tack if the methods you are using are not really working.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

A time for re-evaluating your position, your attitude, your approach to all matters. Through will power, you can stabilize "cloudy" situations.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may yearn for a change — any kind of relief from monotony, but try to shake it off. This is not a time to bypass responsibilities and look for "greener fields."

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Avoid making hasty decisions now. Keep eyes open, ears attuned to suggestions, but evaluate thoroughly before going ahead. Hidden benefits possible.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Where projects are flourishing, continue with present procedure, but if changes are necessary, make them — and without regret! Fine advantage indicated.

Farm loan guarantees available

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie said Monday that about $1.5 million in federal funds can be used to guarantee commercial loans to Ohio farmers.

Approval for release of the funds, termed "a holdover from the depression days," was necessary by Atty. Gen. William Brown and by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Brown's opinion was released at a news conference Monday and Abercrombie said he received unofficial word through Rep. Clarence Miller, R-Ohio, that the federal department also would approve the fund transfer.

The money is part of the Ohio Rural Rehabilitation Corp. Fund, used to help farmers in the 1930s.

Abercrombie said state farmers are expected to need $30 million to $50 million in loans because wet weather delayed the harvest last year and a shortage of propane gas for drying purposes caused further damage.

The commercial loans will be made available to farmers who suffered a loss because of the "adverse conditions this year," Abercrombie said. They will be of greatest benefit to young farmers who could not get loans as a local bank because "they're already in hock."

Loans will be given on a first-come-first-served basis, he said, because of the number of farmers who may require them.

Jobless rate drop sparks inflation fears

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are one of the 4.4 million to 4.7 million jobless members of the labor force you can hardly be expected to appreciate the administration's attitude toward the unemployment rate.

That rate is now down to 5 per cent of the work force, lowest since July 1970. It is falling rather steadily now, and conceivably could be somewhere around 4.5 per cent late in the year.

But already the administration has made clear its fear that the rate might drop too swiftly. Yes, fear; fear that a jobless rate of less than 4.5 per cent might signal more inflation.

It has, therefore, set that rate as an end-of-the-year goal.

By what logic can idleness purposely be tolerated? The explanation goes something like this:

If the jobless rate is descending it means the economy is expanding and absorbing once idle workers. This is healthy, to a point, but it also could signal the onset of inflation.

This has been the story of free economies. They often seek to produce more than their capacity to produce and when that happens it means that supply is insufficient to meet demand. Up go prices.

Wages might rise and be an element in those prices, but even more importantly, labor costs rise. There is a difference; wages could rise 50 per cent a year if productivity rose 50 per cent. That wouldn't be inflationary.

But, when the demand for workers is high, such as in an expansion, there is a tendency for the less productive workers to be used. They are less skilled or lack motivation or proper work habits, or may have other deficiencies.

Speed up this process and you run the risk of throwing elements of the expansion out of balance. A sharp demand for labor, for example, might push up labor costs and then prices, leading to demands for higher wages to meet prices, and so on until a self-sustaining spiral is generated.

The fear of rekindled inflation is illustrated by figures for the fourth quarter of 1972 showing that labor costs per unit of output rose at an annual rate of 3 per cent, after having fallen for two straight quarters.

Those who seek a red inflation signal in the falling jobless rate use these statistics to indicate that caution is advised. It isn't that they're against that rate falling; they fear the speed of its descent.

If we manage to keep the expansion in balance, they say, we can continue to put more and more people to work. And if the economy grows slowly but soundly, without inflation, we can test lower and lower rates, even to 4 per cent.

Osgood was in to check on the date and hour of the first winter session of CK-FN. Osgood will be on hand. And classes will start this week with a lively session on making an interesting and exciting vacation slide show. Come in for further info in these sessions. Or you could just ask Osgood.

It would appear that our place has become a sort of headquarters for the "Nix On O.S.H.A." Committee. The purpose of the committee is first to create enough understanding about OSHA to force Congress to repeal the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970. It seems that those who have been affected most by OSHA still don't seem to be aware of how universal its effect has become. Project OSHA's role into the future and the prospect is awesome. If you wish more info on OSHA drop in and get a little publication by Alan Stang, titled OSHACRATS.

One other thing, have you used Agafacolor film for color prints yet? We saw a wedding shot with this film the other day and man, it was much. Don't mean to detract from the skill and ability of the photographer (that boy knew what he was doing) but the Agafacolor did a great job. Try it for yourself.

Sixth and ninth grades cause concern for City School Board

The City Board of Education Monday night agreed to establish a committee for the purpose of studying the status of the sixth and ninth grades in terms of transferring the two grades within the school district.

Commissioners OK

Wissler Road bridge

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon authorized Fayette County Engineer Charles P. Wagner to proceed by force account on the construction of a new bridge on Wissler Road.

Commissioners also requested the engineer to supply an estimate on a Jeffersonville project, authorized the engineer to advertise for bids for a new pickup truck and approved a grant to the Senior Citizens Center.

Wagner informed the board that the low steel truss bridge over Thompson Fork Creek on Wissler Road in Paint Township is too weak for traffic, and the commissioners approved construction of a new bridge at a total cost of $17,233.

The existing span is 51 feet in length with a roadway width of 16 feet. The proposed new bridge will be 53 feet, five inches in length with roadway width of 24 feet.

Wagner said the existing abutment will be reshaped and lengthened to support the new prestressed concrete beams. The road will be closed for approximately two weeks.

THE BOARD also instructed Wagner to prepare specifications and costs for the Village of Jeffersonville on grading and excavating of Railroad Street between Ohio 41-N and Creamer Avenue, after receiving a letter from Mayor Donald M. Morrow requesting the assistance of the county engineer's office in the project.

The county engineer also was authorized to prepare specifications for a new $\frac{3}{4}$ ton pickup truck with the trade-in of $\frac{3}{4}$ ton 1960 model truck.

Wagner explained to commissioners the 1960 truck has a total of 95,000 miles registered on the speedometer and ployment matters, approved requests from groups to use school facilities and acted on a number of miscellaneous items. Board member Mark Schaeper was absent.

Board members, in general, favored the approach of transferring the sixth grade to the Junior High building and the ninth grade to the Senior High School, but decided to form a study committee which will take a close look at the idea and compile a detailed plan.

The board will meet in a work session at 7:30 p.m. Monday with Fred Jones, high school principal, Hugh Rea, elementary coordinator, and Ben Roby, junior high principal, to form the study committee.

Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor explained to board members that the purpose of transferring the two grades would be to provide better balance, building utilization and instruction.

A better method of re-evaluating the methods of instruction and curriculum in the seventh and eighth grades would be provided in the transfer.

The board set a tentative target date of the 1974-75 school year for the proposed transfer. The Washington C. H. school district has been under its current system for the past five years.

IN EMPLOYMENT matters, the board hired Miss Pamela Baber as Junior High girls' counselor for the 1973-74 school year, contingent upon her completion of certification requirements. Miss Baber is completing a master's degree program at Miami University and is currently a graduate assistant. The beginning salary is $7,315, plus payment for one month of extended service.

Roy Shipley was employed as a Junior High night custodian and the board approved the resignation of Frank Dellingen as a substitute custodian effective Feb. 1 for health reasons.

Jon Creamer and Maurice Pfeifer were employed as driver education instructors for classes beginning March 5. Automobiles will be provided by Halliday and Ron Farmer agencies.

The board granted permission to eight groups to use school facilities. They are:

Mrs. Kathy Lee, representing the Humanities Council, to use the Junior High auditorium March 9 at 8:10 p.m.;

Jack Sommers, of the agricultural extension office, to use the auditorium and four classrooms for 4-H meetings April 5 from 7-9:30 p.m.;

John Butcher, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville, to use the auditorium for a gospel sing Feb. 10 from 6:30-11 p.m. No admission will be charged;

Robert Cotner, representing a square dance club, to use Eastside gym Sundays from 7:30-10 p.m. beginning Feb. 11 for 10 weeks;

Mrs. Harold Soldan to use the auditorium for a Weight Watchers Festival March 15 from 7:30-10 p.m. No admission will be charged;

Don Ribe to use the auditorium for organ concerts March 22 and 27;

Jehovah's Witnesses to use the Junior High gym for basketball at 7:30 p.m. Sunday; and

The Fayette Bible Church to use the Junior High gym Feb. 24 from 7:10 p.m. for basketball. The new ordinance was passed as an emergency measure.

Council also approved purchase of a new $1,400 ambulance for the Fire Department, and up to $600 to be used for emergency equipment for the ambulance.

After approving the payment of current bills, the group adjourned. Tom Woods is Council clerk.

Sabina Council OKs ambulance

SABINA — Sabina Council, meeting Monday night, endorsed a study of the feasibility of a technical school to augment the Great Oaks vocational school system and voided a section of an ordinance in regard to sewer rental charges. This provides for some changes, but does not raise the rate. The new ordinance was passed as an emergency measure.

Council also approved purchase of a new $1,400 ambulance for the Fire Department, and up to $600 to be used for emergency equipment for the ambulance.

After approving the payment of current bills, the group adjourned. Tom Woods is Council clerk.

Karate expert guest

at prayer breakfast

Dale Holzbauer, who holds a black belt in karate, gave a demonstration and spoke on "Self Discipline" the Tuesday morning Teen Prayer Breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ. He is youth minister at the First Church of Christ in Xenia and holds two state records as a champion weight-lifter.

Sixty-one attended the breakfast, during which the pastor, Charles Rich mond, discussed meditation time.

Michelle Davis and Linda Hollingsworth, both freshmen at Washington Junior High School, led group singing. Kathy Woodfork, a senior at Miami Trace High School, sang "How Great Thou Art," and Kevin Pfeifer, a freshman at WJHS, dismissed the group with prayer.

PTO meets Wednesday

BLOOMINGBURG — The Parent Teacher Organization of Bloomingburg Elementary School will have a general meeting at 7:30 Wednesday in the school auditorium. Baby-sitting service will be provided.

OCTA — Village Council was forced to postpone its monthly meeting Monday night because of lack of a quorum. The session will be held next Monday night.

Special meeting at Laurel Oaks

WILMINGTON — Interested parents and students are invited to attend an information meeting which will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Laurel Oaks Career Development Center in Wilmington.

Instructors from each of the 35 vocational programs which will be offered at Laurel Oaks next fall will be on hand to answer questions and conduct tours.
